Let's Start!

Let's explore a natural wonder! Get your mask ready!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about travel and vacations in social situations.

Ask your partner:

- How much attention do you pay to ads?
- How often do they inspire you to do or buy something?

Can Do Statements

- I can ask and talk about what people do and what people did or were.
- I can report about things, actions, events, or people.
- I can give orders and/or instructions.

Let's Explore!

Are you interested in snorkeling? Watch this ad! Come to Belize

* Ads often use yes/no questions and Imperatives to attract customers.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Visit an amazing diverse ecosystem, the Belize Barrier Reef! Observe the reef's diversity of plants and animals firsthand. Enjoy the place designated a World Heritage Site because of its vulnerable wildlife in 1996.

Come and experience a once-in-a-lifetime journey! Sail with us to the Belize Barrier Reef! Embark on an adventure! Snorkel through coral reefs off the coast of Belize City. Hop on board one of our glass-bottom boats! See why Charles Darwin described it as "the most remarkable reef in the West Indies" in 1842.

The top destination for tourists in Belize is the Great Blue Hole. This area is also well known to fishermen as it is vital to the fishing industry in Belize. Spend a day on our yacht! Enjoy an unforgettable cruise! Prices are all-inclusive. Call 1-866-BE-LIZE for details!

Learning Points

Imperatives in Ads

Use the Imperative to give instructions.

The Imperative only has one form. You do not use a subject.

We often use the Imperative in ads to showcase a product and attract customers.

Examples:

- Sail with us to the Belize Barrier Reef!
- Embark on an adventure!
- Come and experience a once-in-a-lifetime journey!
- Snorkel through coral reefs off the coast of Belize City.
- Hop on board one of our glass-bottom boats!
- See why Charles Darwin described it as "the most remarkable reef in the West Indies" in 1842.
